He is not a litigator but he is a trained and experienced mediator. For a more detailed profile visit www.leeandthompson.com.

On Mediation with the MPA

“Mediation will work if the parties genuinely wish to settle their differences. The process allows the parties to work out a deal which is acceptable to all parties. The solution is negotiated and not imposed. I have spent my entire professional life helping clients to structure deals in a way which works for all parties. In mediation, I use proven techniques to assist in the resolution of disputes where, as mediator, I act not on behalf of any one party but as a facilitator.”
